To Whom It May Concern:

Reuben Lloyd Grider was enrolled as a basic student in the United States Naval School of Music on 12 March 1956. During his enrollment he had not only an excellent academic record, but showed a great amount of instrumental accomplishment and very favorable potential as an instructor.

Because of his unusual ability as an instrumentalist he was assigned duty on the Faculty of the United States Naval School of Music as drum instructor, in which capacity he served between 5 November 1956 and 8 August 1957.

As an instructor at this activity, Grider has displayed a keen sense of responsibility. He has been energetic, tactful, quiet though forceful in manner, confident and enthusiastic. He has shown a great deal of conscientiousness and interest in his teaching and, although rather young, has fulfilled in exemplary fashion our standards as an instructor.

Grider is highly recommended for a position as drum instructor or drum instrumentalist. His potential in the field of music education is considered to be excellent.

Sincerely,
